

Junior Management Consultants to KPMG Stockholm start January 2020/August 2020

Are you striving to work with highly strategic transformation projects that truly make a difference for top clients? Join us at KPMG Management Consulting! We are growing rapidly and offer great career opportunities.

When working at KPMG Management Consulting you will be part of a global organization and you work within various industries and areas, together with competent and inspiring colleagues. As Management Consultants, we advise our clients in their transformation journeys from strategy and design to change management and value realization. We work shoulder-to-shoulder with top executives and we always seek digital, innovative and sustainable solutions to our clients' business challenges.

What do we offer?

During your first years at KPMG Management Consulting you will be a part of our learning and development program Talent Growth. In the program, you will acquire knowledge about business sectors, industry trends and KPMG's customers. You will learn our tools and methods, gain deep knowledge about our capabilities and delivery models, while also improving your leadership and sales skills. Together with other KPMG colleagues you will be working on exciting client engagements. Furthermore, you will get a mentor and a dedicated performance manager supporting you in your career.

Who are we looking for?

We are looking for high performing and talented individuals who are recent/to be graduates, preferably with a Master's degree in business and/or engineering. Personal characteristics include a business mindset, excellent communication skills, multilingual proficiency, an analytical way of solving problems. Further, you should be a team player with a genuine interest in seeing customers grow and being part of their journey. In addition to excellent grades we value international experience, previous work experience as well as other engagements and achievements showing a strong drive, high ambition and passion.

We look forward to welcoming our new recruits who will enjoy great fun, a steep learning curve and who work alongside senior colleagues and our clients targeting their critical challenges.
